1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 Context of Gender Mainstreaming in the SADC region

Gender mainstreaming is the process of assessing the implications for women and men, boys and girls, of any planned action, including legislation, policies or programmes, in all areas at all levels. It is a strategy for making women as well as men's concerns and experiences an integral dimension of the design, implementation, monitoring, evaluation and reporting of policies and programmes in all political, economic and societal spheres so that women and men benefit equally and inequality is not perpetuated. The centrality of gender mainstreaming as a development strategy was acknowledged right from the creation of SADC as articulated in the Declaration and Treaty of SADC of 1992. The undertaking to respect the principles of human rights, democracy and the rule of law as well as equity, balance and mutual benefit is explicit in Article 4 and Article 5 (1) (k) to mainstream gender in the process of community building.

The SADC Secretariat undertook a critical additional step to address issues of gender inequality more directly. The Gender Unit in SADC Secretariat was created in 1997 with the mandate to work with the national gender machineries to facilitate a well-coordinated regional strategy for effective gender mainstreaming, networking and exchange of good practices in the gender sector. The Unit is therefore, expected to support Member States to have appropriate working tools and instruments to promote gender mainstreaming and to build capacity of Member States as well as the Secretariat to mainstream gender into all national and regional policies, programmes and activities. Additionally, the Gender Unit is expected to monitor the systematic integration of gender into policies and implementation of the work programmes of the secretariat. The Unit is further tasked to evaluate the impact of gender mainstreaming into the overall SADC Regional Integration Agenda.

1.2 SADC Policy, Legal & Strategic Framework on Gender

SADC has a conducive enabling policy and legal framework for Gender Equality and Women’s Empowerment. In 1997 and 1998 respectively, the SADC Heads of State and Governments adopted the Declaration of Gender and Development and an Addendum on the Declaration on the Prevention and Eradication of Violence against Women and Children. In the Declaration, there is commitment to place gender firmly on the agenda of the SADC programme of Action and Community Building Initiative. The Addendum calls for the adoption of regional policies and programmes to enhance the security and empowerment of women and children as well as legally binding instruments for the prevention of violence against women and children.

In 2005 SADC developed a 15 year Regional Indicative Strategic Development Plan (RISDP) to guide member States, SADC Institutions, regional stakeholders and International Cooperating Partners (ICPs) in the process of deepening integration to turn the Community’s Vision into a reality. In this fundamental document, gender has been defined as one of the “integration and development enablers” and a “cross-sectoral intervention area.” This definition therefore requires that all Directorates and Units integrate relevant gender issues into their business plans as an integral part of their work. It also presumes that the actors in question have the necessary skills to analyze their sector of intervention in order to identify the gender issues therein and define mechanisms for integrating them into the policies, plans, programmes and actions programmed for implementation. The expectation is that they should continuously monitor and evaluate to ascertain that gender issues are kept on board at all phases of intervention.

In 2007, SADC adopted a Regional Gender Policy to provide guidelines for institutionalizing and operationalizing gender as a key development strategy for achieving gender equality, equity and women’s empowerment within SADC Member States and the region as a whole. Subsequently, in 2008 the ground-breaking Protocol on Gender and Development was adopted which was aligned to the targets of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) hence its revision in 2015 for it to be aligned to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)/Agenda 2030 and the AU Agenda 2063. In 2009, a SADC Workplace Gender Policy was adopted and launched on International Women’s Day (IWD). During the same year, a comprehensive SADC Gender Mainstreaming Resource Kit (GMRK) was developed.

In translating the regional mandate of achieving the SADC common agenda and by extension, deepening regional integration and poverty eradication, some key integration and development “enablers” have been identified, and these include peace and security, democracy, good political, economic and corporate governance as well as intensifying the fight against HIV and AIDS, gender mainstreaming and the empowerment of women, and the creation of an enabling institutional environment, amongst others. This positions gender mainstreaming and women’s empowerment in all SADC business as obligatory to achieving the mandate of the institution. The obligation is then on all institutional structures and mechanisms to respond proactively and take positive measures to integrate gender equality issues and concerns and, importantly, tackle inequality in all spheres and at all levels. Hence, Gender Mainstreaming was identified as one of the critical intervention key result area amongst others, upon which the SADC Gender and Development Programme was anchored.

1.3 Problem Statement
SADC has from its inception embraced gender mainstreaming as a strategy towards the achievement of women’s empowerment and gender equality. Efforts have been put in place through the gender policy, and other strategies and legal frameworks. Sensitization and capacity building on gender mainstreaming with the overarching aim of ensuring that the values and principles that foster gender equality and equity are systematically infused and entrenched in all aspects of SADC organizational culture; such as policies, programs, projects, rules, leadership and management styles, staff recruitment procedures, appointments and promotions, terms and conditions of employment, disciplinary measures, staff development and conflict resolution strategies and processes.
To date, the success of these efforts have not been evaluated to find out if the gender mainstreaming capacity in the SADC region has indeed been developed and/or strengthened. Hence, the need to evaluate, monitor and report on the effectiveness of these gender mainstreaming initiatives that have been put in place in order to measure the extent/ magnitude of progress made; challenges experienced and recommendations on the way forward. The outcome of the assessment will inform the development and harnessing of effective, efficient, and relevant strategies; as well as documenting best practices that will foster information sharing and replication amongst Member States.
